“ When Rosie and I got together, one of the first memories I have is that any time she would spank the kids, they would run all through the house, yelling "YAYA, YAYA ." That name that they had for her was synonymous with "safety."

“ My fondest memories of my aunt Elena were when my family and I came to visit Kingsville. We would always stop by El Corral restaurant to see my mom, my aunts, and cousins. Every time Elena would come over to our table to say hello and see how we had been doing. As she talked to each of my kids she would have her hands in her pockets shaking around coins she had from her tips. With every shake my kids would focus on her waiting to see what she was going to do next. After talking with us she would put two quarters on the table by each of my kids. As they would run off to the gumball machine she would smile, laugh, and get back to her customers.
